Sharing

47% of new independent eateries are offering some form of sharing plates or platters. Sharing dishes or platters are a popular, relaxed style of eating, proven to build relationships between diners.

Eating more Drinking less

Consumers are drinking less alcohol and going out for a meal or a hot drink instead.

The Industry

Social

Diners look for eateries with a strong social media presence, seeking out the perfect place to Instagram cocktails, craft beers, colourful desserts and meals.

Colour Revolution

Our research shows that 72% of new openings are using coloured tableware. Bringing colour to the tabletop instantly adds value and creates a wow factor.

Heat & Spice

Diners are becoming more adventurous, eager to try new dishes and seek out spicy world foods.

Sharers

Nothing brings people together like good food, from sharing small plates of sophisticated tapas or watching the sports over a few pints and a meat feast platter, to family style feasting for all ages.

Pubs and bars are comfortable and welcoming alternatives to the high street coffee shops. From business people having a meeting to shoppers taking a break, consumers are opting for a hot drink in a pub. Adding value to hot drinks offerings with barista style pouring, quality coffee roasts and stylish cups and teapots means pubs are competing with the high street.
